

A photograph of a long, narrow indoor garden or conservatory at night. The space is filled with various potted plants, including large leafy ones and smaller ferns. Warm white string lights are draped along the glass walls and around the plants. In the foreground, a small white table holds three lit candles. To the right, a wooden bench with a large black wheel is also decorated with string lights. The floor is a light, reflective surface, and the overall atmosphere is cozy and festive.
